Regardless of the outcome of the 2016 general elections, Immigration Law will be the wave of business for the future. If Mr. Trump wins, his mass deportation plans and constitutional challenges will present opportunities for qualified immigration attorneys to help individuals navigate the immigration laws. Which creates an opportunity for immigration attorneys and paralegals. On the other hand, if Mrs. Clinton wins the elections, she plans to push for immigration reform with a path to citizenship. Again, with 11 million undocumented immigrants to benefit, will we have enough qualified immigration attorneys and paralegals to satisfy all these cases? United States Immigration Law is very complex and you NEED some short-cuts to help you come up to speed.

Marcus A. Jarvis is an Immigration and Criminal Defense Attorney, practicing for over 14 years. He has prosecuted thousands of citizenship, green cards, temporary protected status, work visas, among other cases. He has published and unpublished decisions at the Board of Immigration Appeals, Federal District Court of Minnesota, and Eight Circuit Court of Appeals in addition to coauthoring the book, “A Simple Guide to the Immigration Laws of the United States: What you NEED to know when you come to America”.

When I work with a candidate I create an effective coaching model for the particular client, ensure (s)he fully understands valuing individual personality, prioritize time and focus, helping the candidate to grow and develop him/herself.

TESTIMONIALS

I met Marcus A, Jarvis Summer of 2014. I had just graduated from the University of Minnesota School of Law with my JD. I had no legal working experience. He took me under his wings and has been coaching since that day. He told me that he is just the facilitator to help me develop my legal skills. ~Karen B. (Attorney at law)

I have worked with Marcus A. Jarvis for over seven years in the area of immigration, criminal, worker's compensation, personal injury, and landlord-tenant law to name a few. Marcus is not only passionate about helping clients; he is also as equally passionate if not more about teaching and coaching law students, interns and anybody who wants to learn the legal profession. Even though he has a busy law practice, he always finds time to patiently explain, guide through, and show how to handle a Master Hearing, Individual Hearing, criminal trial, a jail visit, or even how to complete an immigration form. He will even do a mock trial with you if you need it to prepare for your first trial. His thirst for knowledge and for giving back to the community has inspired many people to join the legal profession, including his family members, many of whom are attorneys. He has taught a diverse community of students and employees from countries such as Mexico, Liberia, Canada, Russia, Poland, and Antigua. He authored a book called “A Simple Guide to the Immigration Laws of the United States” and he often travels all over the world to deliver legal knowledge and information in person particularly to countries in the African Continent. In short, Marcus empowers his students, employees, and persons who want to learn by providing legal information and teaching them how to use it to empower themselves as well as other people. He does it in his local community as well as world-wide.

Marcus Jarvis is one of the most reliable and extremely dedicated individuals I have ever known. His wide range of business knowledge and mastership is unequalled. Our paths crossed over 25 years ago and our business relationship grows stronger each year. Mr. Jarvis clearly demonstrates a high degree of compassion serving his law clients and has a burden for immigration and guiding them to US citizenry demonstrated by his many books and audio he has successfully produced. I would highly recommend Marcus Jarvis to anyone who needs a competent and resourceful.
